

Few element about what Korean is?

In Korean, the features of the sentence structure are different from other languages.

Even if you are talking about the same word because the word and the connection are connected without a space, the composition of the word depends on the connection word.

Even if the sentence is composed of the same word, the meaning changes according to the ending word.

Example of Korean sentence structure

Word and connective word combine

